THOUGHT

Greeting from IDEA Program

In the spirit of adventure and exploration, IDEA programme has been created to suit the new approach towards integration and experimentation in multi-disciplinary space-design subjects. This is more than a reflection of how our new kind of studio's ways of teaching and learning are laid out which will signify the higher level for "School of Thought". The mix of different background of students from many countries are key to the building-up of new generation of Asian Architects. IDEA is the first international program in Architecture outside Bangkok and it goes without saying that Chiang Mai and CMU are the best place for this ambition.

Warm welcome to every single cell of creativity and endurance to this new degree programme at FACMU. There are numerous things for both group&individual study to be challenged with valuable experience here at one of the promising Architecture School in Asia.

We wish you all new students well and hope you enjoy the new chapter in learning and experimenting life for the Integrated Design in Emerging Architecture.

Integrated Design in Emerging Architecture

Bachelor of Science Program in Architecture

Integrated Design in Emerging Architecture (IDEA) is a 4-year Bachelor of Science (B.Sc) English language international program offered by the Faculty of Architecture, Chiang Mai University. Situated in the oldest higher education institution in the region and surrounded by a culturally and historically vibrant urban backdrop, the program is dedicated to nurture students' critical thinking and independent design capabilities with the knowledge of the latest digital design and fabrication skills that are increasingly being sort-after in the architectural and design community both locally and overseas.

With a particular focus on innovation and experimental design, the 4-year curriculum aims to ground up students' architectural design knowledge from an interdisciplinary approach that include social, physical, life sciences and beyond. Throughout their studies, students will integrate diverse design values from a wide range of creative design industries, whilst the unit system in each year offer varies opportunities for students to investigate and develop their creative thinking process behind their production outcomes. The program is formulated from the belief in creative design values that lead to the core of any principles in design businesses that require an innovative thinking approach.

As Chiang Mai is emerging to become a key player in the local and global creative industry, the IDEA course is perfectly suited to provide its graduates with the best opportunities to develop a successful creative design career and become future leaders in these lines of design-value-oriented businesses. Furthermore, the program is constructed in the dialectic forms of knowledge and practice with creative experimentations in order for students to understand the value process of architectural and spatial design. The program will give special emphasis on teaching, training and communication in English, with a dedicated team of international design academics and practitioners and the opportunity to take part in internship abroad in the latter part of the course in order for students to build the best design thinking foundation for their further studies and interests after graduation.

12) Educational system

The University holds that all students possess the abilities to learn and self-develop and that students are of the highest importance. The process of education management must foster students' development by their natural abilities to full capacity.

The University adopts the interdisciplinary system in which Faculties, Departments or Schools responsible for a certain field of study provide education in that field to all students at the University. A field of study offered at the University consists of multiple courses.

12.1 The University may administer 2 types of education, which are formal education and informal education.

1) Formal education specifies the objectives, methods, durations, and measurement and evaluation, which form the requirements for degree completion.

2) Informal education allows learners to learn from individuals, experiences, society, surroundings, media or other sources of knowledge, according to their interests, capacity, readiness and opportunities. The number of credits and content of each course is subject to the University Announcement.

12.2 The University uses the semester system or the module system.

1) The semester system is the system in which the academic year is divided into 2 regular semesters, each of which has the duration of no less than 15 weeks. There may be a summer semester that is optional with the duration of approximately 6 weeks. The teaching hours of each course shall be the same as the regular semesters.

However, there may be an obligatory summer semester for programs that specify the summer semester as a part of the study plan.

In case where a degree program consists of courses that need to be offered in the summer semester for an internship, fieldwork, cooperative education, project or case study, the course management and administration shall not be deemed as belonging to the summer semester, but the regular semester.

2) The module system is a system in which the periods of teaching are divided based on the topics of study, with the amounts of content, teaching hours and credits being equivalent to the standard criteria of the semester system.

12.3 The University uses the credit system in which the number of credits indicates the quantity of learning in each course. Course credits are determined based on the standard criteria of the semester system, as follows.

(1) Lecture-based teaching that consists of 1 hour of lecture or discussion per week and no less than 15 hours throughout the regular semester is worth 1 credit.

(2) Practice-based teaching that consists of 2 to 3 hours of training, laboratory or practice per week, 30 to 45 hours in total throughout the regular semester is worth 1 credit.

(3) Practicum, internship, fieldwork or cooperative education that requires 3 to 6 hours per week, 45 to 90 hours in total throughout the regular semester is worth 1 credit.

(4) Project work or other assigned learning activities that require 45 to 90 hours over the regular semester are worth 1 credit.

(5) In the case where Regulations 12.3 (1), (2), (3) and (4) are not applicable, the University may assign the number of teaching hours, practicum or other means of teaching to obtain the appropriate amount of content per credit.

12.4 The University may set a prerequisite for certain courses to ensure that students are able to study in that course with efficiency.

12.5 A course shall have the labelled course code and course title.

12.6 The course code consists of the abbreviation of the responsible Division which is no longer than 4 alphabetic letters, and the 3-digit individual course code of which the first digit (the hundred's digit) signifies the course level, as follows.

"100 - 200" are fundamental courses.

"300 - 500" are upper-level courses.

12.7 Upon closing a course, the Faculty shall thoroughly check that there are no longer any students who are required to take that course, and the course code must be retained for a minimum of 5 years.

13) Program curriculum

13.1 Undergraduate programs shall comply with the University Announcement or the University Council's specification.

13.2 Students who wish to use the revised curriculum shall submit the request to their advisor, which would be proposed to the Dean for approval.

14) Registration

14.1 Course enrollment

For course enrollment in each semester, advisors provide consultation to students, as well as giving guidance according to the study plan and individual needs. Students shall comply with the following regulations.

(1) Course enrollment shall adhere to the University Announcement. Students who enroll after the specified period are subject to the fine described in CMU Regulation on Tuition Fees.

(2) Late enrollment is allowed within the period specified in the academic calendar. After the deadline, the student's right to register in that semester shall be revoked.

(3) Course enrollment is complete only when the payment of fees has been made and the University has received all the proofs of payment.

In the case of a request for tuition fee refund, it shall adhere to CMU Regulation on Tuition Fees.

(4) Students who have completed a course with a C grade or equivalent, or higher, or S, CE, CP, CS, CT and CX, shall not enroll in the same course or courses with comparable content. Repeating enrollment with such conditions shall be deemed invalid.

The exception is for a Major course with a C or C+ grade. In this case, students may repeat such course.

(5) Students who have completed a course with an I or P grade shall not enroll in such course again.

(6) Full-time students must enroll for a minimum of 9 credits but no more than 22 credits in a regular semester. In the summer semester, students may not enroll for more than 9 credits.

(7) In case of necessity, students may enroll for less than 9 credits in a regular semester upon the Dean's approval.

(8) Enrollment in a cooperative education course, or a course that is based on professional training or internship that is required in the study plan shall have the same number of credits as specified in the program's study plan.

(9) Students who expect to graduate within the semester may enroll for more than 22 credits in a regular semester or more than 9 credits in the summer semester upon the Dean's approval.

(10) Students may enroll in a course for knowledge enrichment purpose if the course instructor and the Head of the responsible Department or Division provide their written consent, given that they have obtained the advisor's approval and have submitted the evidence to the University.
